Culturally Inclusive Research Centre Australia (CIRCA)

Industry leader in research and evaluation with people with disability, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples, as well as Culturally and Linguistically Diverse (CALD) communities, and a specialist in the application of culturally sensitive approaches. We champion intersectional, person-centred, accessible, and culturally-safe approaches.

Client-centred approach

At CIRCA, we work closely with our clients to craft research methods and approaches that meet their needs while also being culturally appropriate, accessible, inclusive, and safe. Further, CIRCA maintains an extensive network of community-based research consultants, and through this we engage a wide variety of people across Australia: people with disability, people from CALD backgrounds, and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples.

Culturally diverse expert team

Academically trained applied social scientists delivering: robust insightful and culturally nuanced analysis.

ISO 20252:2019 accredited

Ensuring rigorous standards in research conduct, analysis, and reporting, providing trustworthy, high-quality research products.

All these factors have led to a high rate of repeat business from our satisfied government, non-profit and private sector clients.

Extensive experience to benefit you

At CIRCA, we have successfully demonstrated our research competence and cultural expertise in over 500 projects for more than 150 clients across a range of research and evaluation topics including health, housing, education, domestic and family violence, data privacy and security, disability, and ageing.

CIRCA's high-quality research, premium customer service, and on-time delivery is what sets us apart.
